TWO SHOTS MISS;

Sergt. Quianthy Owes Life to Being Better Shot Than Negro.

Steady aim and presence of mind saved the life of Lee Quianthy, police sergeant. Wednesday night, when a negro announced from the darkness of Tennessee street, 200 feet north of Butler avenue. "I've got you, boss," and fired two shots point blank at Quianthy. The policeman's pistol flashed in return, and his builet tore through the white teeth of the negro, into his brain, sending him dying into the arms of Quianthy, Quianthy, pistol in hand, and flash-

When they pursued the negro fired. One shot hit Phipps. The officers car-ried Phipps to the Crown Drug com-pany, Main street and Vance avenue.

ried Phipps to the Crown brug company, Main street and Vance avenue. There they met Sergt, Quianthy, who got the facts from them. Quianthy went to Tennessee street, where he met the negro was a highwayman, who had operated extensively in Memphis. They base this belief on the fact that he shot so desperately when officers went after Mm. They think he thought the cops had the facts on some job he had pulled off recently.

Papers in the negro's pockets identified him as Hail. He had discharge papers showing that he had been a corporal in the Twenty-fourth company, 165th depot brigade, Camp Travis, Tex. The papers gave his name as Clarence A. Hall, Oakdale, La.

MO. PAC. EMBARGO HAS BEEN REMOVED

The Missouri Pacific railroad's embargo on ocrtain classes of dead freight in car load lots, declared during the recent coal strike when the company's yards at Memphis and at Wynne became congressed with coal, was declared off Thursday, leaving the line free to handle all business offered.

During the strike emergency the Missouri Pacific handled hundreds of cars of coal from connecting lines from the south and east, to supply the southwestern region. The heavy volume of coal required practically all its freight equipment and congested its yards, making necessary the temporary embargo, until conditions again became normal. white test of the series of content by the content of the series of of
